HEALTHY DIGESTION

The foundation of health

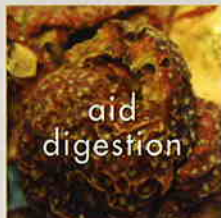

Traditional Chinese Medicine Science adopts the philosophy that the digestive system is the foundation of health. The digestive system is the most important organ in absorbing nutrients and is the source of vital energy and blood.

In today's fast-paced living environment, people tend to neglect the proper maintenance of the digestive system. Common digestive problems are constipation, heartburn, IBS gas/flatulence/bloatedness, abdominal cramp, to name a few.

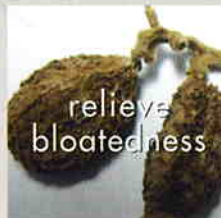

When the digestive system is not functioning well, our health will also be affected. When the digestive organs fail to breakdown fatty deposits, these deposits will clog our arteries resulting in high cholesterol. When waste matters are not fully discharge, they may be assimilated into the blood stream resulting in diseases.
